

Plan for 6.5-yr MBBS course with village stint: The government is planning to make the undergraduate MBBS course six-and-a-half years long, instead of the present five-and-a-half years, with a one-year rural posting must before they begin practice. The proposal was first mooted by former health minister A Ramadoss in 2007. P8

06-02-2012 Times of India